ASILI

ASILI is a Swahili word meaning ORIGIN, SOURCE, and ESSENCE. It can also mean the fundamental principal of a culture. It is not cognitive, it is metaphysical.

intro DUCTION

A great law school is not measured only by the quality of its lecturers, but by the strength of the systems that support its students. For us to thrive as future advocates, judges, and policymakers, we need an environment that speaks to both our academic aspirations and our personal well being.

This manifesto is built on the belief that small, deliberate changes create lasting impact. Each initiative proposed here is intentional: strengthening academic excellence, opening doors to career opportunities, supporting mental health and fostering values that make us not just better lawyers, but better people.

Less is more but the impact will be everything!

Less will always be more.

We envision a faculty where academic growth is nutured, career paths are illuminated, student welfare is prioritized and community and values are strengthened through gratitude.

The VISION

Our vision is clear: a law school community where every student feels heard, supported and empowered to succeed. By combining mentorship ,innovation and wellness, we can transform challenges into opportunities and prepare ourselves to lead with integrity in the world beyond campus.

Career Development and PROFESSIONAL EXPOSURE

Through Faculty Career Day and Legal Clinics, a signature event connecting students with judges, lawyers and alumni across diverse legal fields. Legal clinics complement this by offering practical, hands on experience to better align career aspirations with real practice.

Mental WELL-BEING

Mental health is foundational to academic and personal success. We will organize sit-in sessions and panel discussions led by experienced counsels and wellness advocates. These safe spaces will allow students to share challenges, receive guidance, and foster resilience.

Every mind is at the mercy of its builder

Students SUPPORT SYSTEMS

We will establish a dedicated student support email to serve as a bridge between students and faculty administration. Whether it's missing marks, academic concerns, or logistical queries, this channel will ensure timely, respectful, and solution-oriented correspondence. Liaison officers will coordinate with administration to provide clear schedules for resolution and support.

We will establish a confidential complaint and feedback system to address anomalies and concerns. Every submission will follow a clear procedure, ensuring accountability, transparency, and timely action. Students deserve to be heard without fear or delay.

One of our core values as #TeamAsili is student centeredness. We are looking out on how fellow students benefit from the student welfare programme offered by the school. It is our ardent desire, when elected in office, to partner with the incumbent CUEASO leadership to ensure a proper policy is structured so that students working for the school, can have a better, reasonable and proportional pay.

Dignity begins with

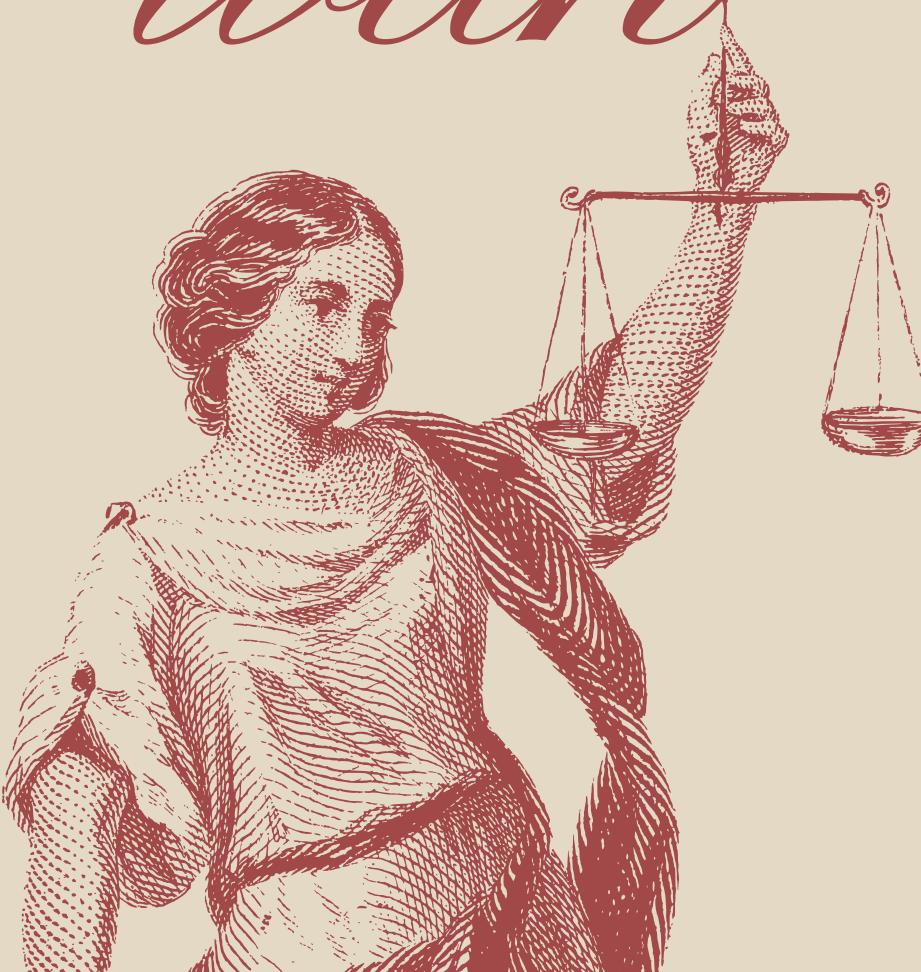

CLEANLINESS

Clean and well maintained washrooms are a reflection of care for every student.

We recognize the concerns raised on sanitation and we commit to consistently improving cleanliness standards in our faculty.

Building on the previous initiative, we will continue providing tissue paper and pads and improving its accessibility to the ladies and gentlemen in a dignified manner.

Through collaboration with the administration, we aim to make our faculty a place of comfort.

Environmental Care and GRATITUDE

Our environment really matters as it a very important part of our ecosystem. Once elected in office, we will ensure we put forth measures that will enable us to care and preserve our environment. We will organise a day where we can clean the environment around our Law school. On 21st March, we will ensure that the law school is represented in the World Tree Planting exercise that is done worldwide. Team Asili cares for our Environment.

Gratitude is a virtue that shapes character. We will dedicate a week to intentional thanksgiving celebrating peers, faculty, and support staff. Through letters, prayer, and acts of kindness, we will cultivate a culture of appreciation and holistic wellbeing.
